Dear Patients

We have been overwhelmed at the generosity of patients of the John Lant & Partners practice, who have donated to the School in memory of John.

As a board member and as our Chair, John gave so much to the British School of Osteopathy – and indeed to the profession. It will be of no surprise to anyone who has known him, that John was interested in every aspect of running our institution and wholeheartedly supportive of me and everyone who works here. We feel his loss keenly, and miss him more than he'd ever have taken credit for.

John was a passionate fundraiser for the School – you may not be aware that we run charitable free clinics for people who are homeless, disadvantaged older adults, babies and children, and people living with HIV and chronic pain. He helped plan our fundraising activities to ensure these clinics continued to thrive in the recent economic downturn – knowing that the impact of the care provided on those patients is fantastic.

As John's patients, you will have benefited from his professional skills – and we're very proud that he started his osteopathic journey as a BSO student. Thank you so much to everyone who has given to the BSO's community work in honour of his memory. It is so typical of John to have ensured that others would benefit at this very sad time.

With best wishes
